GUN ON HESPERIAN A QUALIFYING FACT

News of Torpedoing of Allan Liner Comes as Surprise to United States Officials.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Official Washington received news of the torpedoing of the Allan liner Hesperian by a German submarine with unexplained surprise, though there was none of the grave anxiety that followed the sinking of the Arabic.

While comment was withheld at both the White House and the State department, pending detailed reports on the attack, it was learned that high officials regarded it as inconceivable that, after the assurances given by the German government last week, a German submarine commander had without warning launched a torpedo at a peaceful passenger vessel.

President Wilson and Secretary Lansing heard of the incident first early today through Associated Press dispatches. Later cabled reports from Ambassador Page at London and Consul Frost at Queenstown announced the torpedoing of the Hesperian.

Two Americans are said to have been among the members of the crew. The reports made public by the State department made no mention of whether the vessel was carrying or attempted to carry any passengers or cargo, but it is known that other dispatches indicated that while the British admiralty believed there had been no warning, it would not announce it as a fact.

Gun Will Make Difference.

Some significance was attached to Consul Frost's statement that the Hesperian carried mounted and visible on its stern a 17-inch rifle. While international law permits merchantmen to have guns for defensive purposes, particularly when they are of small caliber and mounted aft, it was pointed out that if the Allan liner acted at all suspiciously after being approached by the presence of this gun, probably mounted prominently in the submarine commander's explanation of the torpedoing.

GRAVE ANXIETY IS LACKING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Official Washington received news of the torpedoing of the Allan liner Hesperian by a German submarine with unexplained surprise, though there was none of the grave anxiety that followed the sinking of the Arabic.

APPAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

South Siders Protest Stench from Sewer in Complaint to Council.

At a meeting of the South Side Improvement club Friday evening action was taken by members present to present a memorial to the city commissioners over the well known "Stink Creek" sewer. A committee of three, with Eddie Krause as chairman, was appointed by President Mahoney to confer with the city fathers in an effort to abate the nuisance.

Several residents of the Maple Avenue district have complained from time to time of the stench from the sewer administration over the ineffectiveness of the expensive $100,000 sewerage system installed at the city's expense several years ago. In an effort to stop the steady and continual rise of the stench from packing house refuse, which is carried almost exclusively through the sewer, goose neck manholes were installed in the place of the ones first installed by Contractors Hoffman Brothers, who completed the job for the city. These installations proved of little avail and today the sewer is practically as bad as it was before the expensive underground system was installed and some residents say that it is even worse.

Makes Sharp Turn.

The sewer is built under Maple avenue from Y street to Monroe street to a depth of from twenty-five to thirty feet. At Monroe street it makes a sharp turn and from Thirteenth street and Monroe it is one solid hole driven directly in the side of a great hill almost to the edge of the Missouri river. At places the connection is more than 100 feet under ground and is one of the most expensive propositions ever undertaken by the city of South Omaha.

That the sewer is practically of no value to residents of the Maple avenue district besides being a detriment to the little else but refuse from the packing plants and the stock yards is carried through the system. As the sewer was built with bonds voted for by the people of South Omaha, the complaint approaches a very justifiable one. What actions the city commission or local department will take in the matter is being eagerly awaited by both residents of the South district and of the entire city. If the system is to be remedied entirely, it would mean an enormous expense. The gas that would develop in case the manhole openings were filled up would make it almost impossible to adopt such a plan.

Mayor Speaks to Plans.

Amid a continued parade of a Bohemian orchestra, led by Director F. S. Pala, and the excited clapping of 100 Bohemian residents of Greater Omaha, Mayor James C. Dahman made a few complimentary remarks at the close of the tournament of athletes of Sokol union of the West at the South Side hall at Twenty-first and U streets.

The mayor, accompanied by several of his colleague commissioners, rode in an automobile in the grand Ted Sokol parade before the final exhibitions of the tournament were staged at the field and in the hall.

In his remarks, the mayor complimented the Sokols of Omaha and other places represented at the grand day meet on their prowess in athletics.

The parade presented a beautiful appearance on Twenty-fourth street. Captain Briggs led, riding a horse, closely followed by a detail of eight policemen captured by Sergeant Carey. The mayor's automobile followed closely on the heels of the policemen. A hundred and fifty little boy and girl trainers, carrying small wooden hoops represented the first detail of the marchers. All were dressed in white. Members of the Ted Sokol unions followed in double file with banners flying and the music of a band guiding their steps.

At the Sokol stadium class.

Captain Anton Vancous eliminated what seemed an inevitable clash of two parades. Rumanians of the West Side were also holding a parade and the two parades met at Twenty-fourth and N streets. The captain held the corner directing the safe and orderly passage of the two lines of marchers. The only conflict was the music from two bands. Joe Stecker did not appear at the meet as had been planned. His brother, Anton, was present. The final meeting was adjourned late last evening with a grand ball. In spite of the many difficulties encountered by Chairman of the Arrangements, H. C. Butch, the journey was called one of the best held here in years.

Labor Day on South Side.

Labor day on the South Side means a day's rest to some 4,000 laborers of the four great packing houses of Omaha. Hundreds of employees of other large businesses will also be off for the day.

The big doing at the East Omaha Auto speedway, where races and a real head-on engine collision will be staged for amusement will probably draw a majority of the working men from the limits of the South Side. Labor organizations will parade, extracting the usual crowd of local union men from the role of industry. The parade will be held through South Side streets.

Fire in Fertilizer Plant.

Fire of unknown origin broke out in the flue of the fertilizer at the Cudahy & Co. packing plant at Thirty-third and P. streets late Saturday night at 12:15 o'clock and lasted for several minutes. Fertilizer piled in bins nearby ignited and a great flame rose to the sky, presenting an appearance of a big fire to watchers of the plant.

A general alarm was sent in and the entire apparatus of the South Side battalion was dispatched with haste to the plant grounds. A few minutes' work sufficed to extinguish the flames.
